

THE ARCHER'S THREAD

RELENTED PART ONE

NOEL ZAMOT

Simon Lyons can see ten seconds into the future.

His employer considers it a useful skill –everyone else thinks he’s the most dangerous person on earth. Only he knows his condition is driving him insane.

Ashamed of what he’s become, he disappears to Boston, the last place he remembers being normal. He spends nights hiding from the past, drinking himself numb, beating up petty criminals . . . and failing to kill himself.

He unexpectedly meets a young professor with the inexplicable ability to mute his condition. For the first time in ten years, Simon cannot see the future when she’s nearby. The promise of normalcy is intoxicating, hopeful and addictive. He uses all of his skill to manipulate Dr. Kelly Austin and her students, find the answer—and leave.

That’s when the past comes crashing back: the origins of Simon’s skill, the people who’d kill to keep it hidden. . . and someone who will stop at nothing to bring him back.

Blending action and suspense in the traditions of Dan Brown, Lee Child and Michael Crichton, The Archer’s Thread will remind you of a deadly lesson:

Even if you can see the future, you can never escape your past.

Book Metadata

ISBN: 978-1-64111-589-6

Publisher: Palmetto

Page Count: 465

Release Date: August 2021

Genre: Speculative Fiction, Suspense

SCAN ME

Noel Zamot has worked across the globe in military, government, and private industry. He’s a former combat aviator who commanded the US Air Force’s elite Test Pilot School; an economic development executive who has testified twice in Congress, and a technology expert who crafted plans for space warfare and developed methods to protect US military jets against cyber threats. He studied engineering at MIT, earning a minor in writing under the incomparable Joe Haldeman, author of the Hugo Award winning The Forever War. He is an avid cyclist, sailplane pilot and coffee roaster. He lives in Tarpon Springs, Florida, with his wife.

Catch them on the trails.

Contact:

Web: www.noelzamot.com
noel@noelzamot.com

1324 Seven Springs Blvd #191
New Port Richey, FL 34655